From his studio in Banff, artist and self-proclaimed “court painter” Allan MacKay has been satirizing our federal (for the most part) political figures on a daily basis.

MacKay sends his digital collages out to whoever signs up for his mailing list, and the collages are dry and welcome takes on a political circus that often regards itself rather too highly. No figure nor party is spared from the offerings of MacKay, and his work can be seen in a new exhibition, “Court Painter: Good to Go!”, at Cube Gallery (1285 Wellington West) to Oct. 25, a week after Canada votes.

Vernissage is 6 to 9 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 8.
